THE TRANSVAAL.

Predicted the Free State Raad Will Take Decisive Measures.

Boers Can Not Commence Hostilities Before the End of October Owing to Absence of Rain—Orange Free State thanked for Aid.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The Transvaal situation presents no new features. Dispatches from Johannesburg Monday morning report a complete dislocation of the Rand mining industry. The exodus continues and all the mines are closing.

The Bloemfontein correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, a pro-Boer organ, says: "Both President Steyn and Mr. Fisher, (of the Orange Free State executive), inform me that the Volksraad is absolutely unanimous that the two republics should stand or fall together. President Steyn said: 'Suppose we remain neutral and the Transvaal were conquered. It is not likely that we would be long permitted to stand outside British control. Let a rich gold field be discovered, and what would become of us?'"

The special correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at Pietermaritzburg, Natal, says: "It is believed that the protracted sitting of the Orange Free State raad is due to the elaboration of decisive measures. No rain has fallen in either republic and it is doubtful whether the Boers can commence hostilities before the end of October."

PRETORIA, Sept. 25.—The Volksraad conveys to President Steyn and Mr. Fisher, of the Orange Free State, the thanks of the whole republic for their support.

According to the same authority the Transvaal government has decided to return to the owner the fine young lion which Cecil Rhodes recently presented to the Transvaal delegates to the Agricultural Union in Cape Town about ten days ago as it declines to have anything whatever to do with that gentleman.

WIND AND RAIN STORM.

The Steam Barge Cleveland, Laden With Lumber, sunk in the Harbor Near Mouth of Chicago River.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—During a severe wind and rain storm Sunday evening the steam barge Cleveland, lumber laden, sunk in the harbor near the mouth of the Chicago river. Capt. Henry Davis and a crew of 11 men were rescued by tugs, with considerable difficulty.

The Cleveland left Frankfort, Mich., Saturday, bound for Chicago with 200,000 feet of lumber. The boat sprung a leak off Waukegan, and owing to her water-logged condition was driven on a reef while attempting to reach the inner harbor here. After the crew was rescued, tugs dragged the half-sunken vessel into the inner harbor. The Cleveland was built 30 years ago.

BOMBARDMENT.

For Three Hours American War Ships Threw Shells Into Olangapo.

Americans Had One Man Wounded During the Engagement—Olangapo, Which Was Huddled With Shells, Took Fire at Several Places.

MANILA, Sept. 25.—The United States cruiser Charleston, the monitor Monterey and the gunboats Concord and Zafiro, with marines and blue jackets from the cruiser Baltimore, left Cavite September 18 and proceeded to Subig bay to destroy an insurgent cannon there.

Owing to the bad weather the operation was postponed until Saturday when the war ships for three hours bombarded the town of Olangapo and the entrenchments where the gun was situated.

Men from the Charleston, Concord and Zafiro were then landed under a heavy insurgent fire, proceeding to the cannon which was utterly destroyed by gun cotton, and then returning to the war ships.

The Americans had one man wounded during the engagement. While waiting in Subig bay for better weather the Americans despatched Filipino re-inforcements moving toward Olangapo.

At 6:40 a. m., Saturday, the Monterey began the advance upon the town, which was about three miles east of the monitors' anchorage. The Charleston, Concord and Zafiro followed.

At 7:25 the Monterey opened fire with her second and main batteries, the Charleston and Concord joining immediately. At 7:38 the insurgent cannon answered, the first shot passing close to the Monterey's smokestack. The gun was fired twice only.

The American bombardment then became general. At 9:30 the Monterey advanced to a range of 600 yards, using her main battery. Two hundred and fifty men were landed about 800 yards east of the cannon at 11 o'clock under a severe shore Mauser fire. The men from the Charleston were the first to reach the beach, but the Concord's men were the first at the gun, which they reached at 11:10. The cannon was found to be a 16-centimeter Krupp gun, presumably obtained from the Spaniards.

Meanwhile the war ships continued to shell the shelving beach on the east and west side to silence the insurgent fire upon the sailors from the trenches skirting the beach.

Gunner Olsen exploded 50 rounds of gun cotton, in three discharges, in the cannon, which had suffered from the fire of the war ships.

The Americans then returned to the boats, the firing inland being kept up to protect the embarkation. The Concord's men were the last to reach the shore, and the war ships were reached at 11:50.

Cadet Brinzer, with the Concord's launch armed with a Gatling, did excellent work on the left of the landing party. Capt. Myers, of the marines, captured a muzzle-loading field piece. Lieut. McDonald was in command of the landing party, and the movement was splendidly executed and controlled.

The numbers of the Filipinos there could not be ascertained and no dead were seen.

The Monterey fired for four hours—twenty-one shots from her ten-inch guns and seventeen from her twelve-inch guns.

The town which was riddled with shells, took fire at several points.

BUY A CUBAN ESTATE.

American Capitalists Purchase the Tinguaro Sugar Farm of 20,000 Acres in the Province of Matanzas.

HAVANA, Sept. 25.—Congressman R. R. Hawley, representing American capitalists, has purchased the Tinguaro sugar estate, one of the largest in Cuba; in the province of Matanzas. The estate includes 20,000 acres which, with other large properties along the south coast that Mr. Hawley is arranging for, will, it is expected, produce 100,000,000 pounds of sugar. A large part of the land purchased is virgin soil, upon which $1,500,000 will be expended, including the cost of improvements.

Disturbances at Ferrol, Spain.

FERROL, Spain, Sept. 25.—Serious disturbances took place here Saturday evening. A mob of 600 stoned the Catholic club and town hall, smashing the windows in both buildings. The municipal guards charged the rioters but were repulsed, 11 guards being injured, as well as many civilians. Finally a squad of mounted gendarmes dispersed the rioters. The authorities have proclaimed the city under martial law.

GUTHRIE, O. T. Sept. 25.—The Rogers ranch in Beaver county, Oklahoma, and the Childress cattle ranch in the Pan-handle of Texas, containing 200,000 acres and on which 300,000 cattle are now grazing, has been purchased by R. L. Ellison, of Fort Worth, Tex., for the Swift packing house interests in Chicago. The titles to three other great ranches are being examined into with a view to purchase by the Swifts. Only a few days ago the Swifts purchased the O'Keefe ranch in Gaines county, Texas, containing 18,000 acres.

NOT ON THE BILLS.

The Leading Lady of the "Mr. Plaster of Paris" Co. shoots the Manager in a Chattanooga Theater.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 23.—Julia Morrison, leading lady of the "Mr. Plaster of Paris" Farce Comedy Co., shot and killed Frank Leiden, stage manager and leading man of the company Friday at the City Opera House, on the stage, just before the curtain rose for the performance to begin. Three shots were fired at close range by the woman, all taking effect in Leiden's head. He sank to the floor and was dead in a few minutes.

The woman was arrested and taken to the city jail. A coroner's inquest was held, at which it was developed that the trouble had existed between Leiden and Miss Morrison and Friday she slapped him. It appears that they quarreled over the woman's alleged bad acting. Leiden accusing her of being but an amateur.

The woman claims that Leiden repeatedly insulted her; that he had made improper proposals to her, and in self-defense she shot him. The verdict of the coroner's jury was to the effect that the murder was premeditated and wholly unjustifiable. The woman claims to be from New Orleans, and a man with the company named James she claims as her husband. James has been arrested as the instigator of the crime.

The sympathies of the entire company are with the murdered man, they claim that the killing was wholly unjustifiable and the woman is an amateur and got into the company by misrepresentation. The company has been on the road three weeks and has been unusually successful.

EXCLUSION OF CHINESE.

The Attitude of Gen. Otis Toward the Celestials Discussed at Friday's Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—At the cabinet meeting Friday the subject of Chinese exclusion in the Philippines was discussed at some length. It was decided to ask Otis for definite information as to what had been done, and especially in regard to a particular complaint from the Chinese minister that one ship load of Chinese had been stopped. Gen. Otis will be asked to give reasons why this action was taken.

First Assistant Secretary Hill, of the state department, was present at the session on account of the Chinese exclusion topic.

The subject of postal matters in Cuba and Porto Rico was considered, and it was decided to reduce the rate in Porto Rico from five to two cents, allowing the same regulations to prevail as in Cuba.

The fund should be increased to at least $50,000 to enable the committee to purchase a home at the capital of the nation which will be a credit to the givers and a pride to the hero of Manila bay. The committee decided to close the subscriptions before the arrival of Adm. Dewey.

NOW A PRINCESS.

Miss Julia Dent Grant Marries the Prince Cantacuzene of Russia.

Miss Grant's Brother, Ulysses S. Grant, Gave Bride Away—Ceremony Consumed an Hour and It Was Nearly Midnight When the Guests Left.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 25.—In accordance with the rites of the Russian orthodox church, Miss Julia Dent Grant, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Frederick Grant, and granddaughter of Gen. U. S. Grant, and Prince Cantacuzene, Count Speranzky, of Russia, were married Sunday night. Simple and impressive ceremonies were conducted by Father Hotovitsky, of the Russian church, New York, in the parlor at Braulieu, the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer.

The American statutes were conformed to in All Saints Episcopal church Monday noon.

A special altar had been raised in the parlor by Father Hotovitsky and his assistant. After the room had been formally consecrated at half past 8 o'clock the bride appeared at the head of the grand staircase leaning on the arm of her brother, Ulysses S. Grant, third. At the altar, before which stood the Russian priest, waited Prince Cantacuzene clad in the full uniform of the Chevalier garb. The bride's dress was severely cut and was a simple gown of the richest white satin with sweeping train and veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and lilies of the valley, and wore the gift of the bridegroom, a corsage ornament of diamonds and enamel and a rope of pearls.

The ushers who preceded Miss Grant and her brother to the altar were: Potter Palmer, jr., cousin of the bride; Lockwood Honore, uncle of the bride; Capt. Satoris, cousin of the bride; Robert L. Gerry, of New York; H. Roger Winthrop, of Newport, and John Prentiss, of New York.

In accordance with the Russian custom Miss Grant had two garcon de noce, her brother, Ulysses S. Grant, third, and her uncle, Adrian Honore, those of Prince Cantacuzene being Honore Palmer and Potter Palmer, jr., while the parents d'honneur were Grand Duke Vladimir and Mrs. Potter Palmer.

Mr. Grant conducted his sister to the altar. Besides the immediate family there were present Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant, grandmother of the bride; H. H. Monroe, Edwin C. Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. H. Monroe, jr., Mrs. Satoris, wife of Capt. Satoris; Maj. Gen. Wesley A. Merritt and Maj. Mott, of his staff; Adj. Gen. Corbin, Col. and Mrs. Hein and Bishop Potter.

The picturesque ritual interspersed with frequent music by a local quartette was lengthy. The services closed with the singing of the Russian national hymn after which the couple received congratulations while the orchestra discoursed music.

The ceremony consumed an hour and it was nearly midnight before the guests departed.

Itching Burning Scaly Blotchy Humors
Instantly Relieved and Speedily Cured by Cuticura

The itching and burning I suffered in my feet and limbs for three years were terrible. At night they were worse and would keep me awake a greater part of the night. I consulted doctor after doctor, as I was travelling on the road most of my time, also one of our city doctors. None of the doctors knew what the trouble was. I got a lot of the different samples of the medicines I had been using. I found them of so many different kinds that I concluded I would have to go to a Cincinnati hospital before I would get relief. I had frequently been urged to try CUTICURA REMEDIES, but I had no faith in them. My wife finally prevailed upon me to try them. Presto! What a change! I am now cured, and it is a permanent cure. I feel like kicking some doctor or myself for suffering three years when I could have used CUTICURA remedies.

H. JENKINS, Middleboro, Ky.

Speedy Cure Treatment

Bathe the affected parts with HOT water and CUTICURA SOAP to cleanse the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply CUTICURA Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and lastly take CUTICURA RESOLVENT to cool and cleanse the blood.

This sweet and wholesome treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning, and scaly humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent, and economical cure when all other remedies and even the best physicians fail.

Price, THE SET, $1.25; OR, SOAP, 25c., OINTMENT, 25c., and RESOLVENT (half size) 50c. Sold throughout the world. CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT, CUTICURA RESOLVENT, Sole Proprietors, Boston, Mass. "How to Cure Itching, Scaly humors," mailed free.

Political News.

Judge Mulhgan, of Lexington, will go on the stump for Goebel.

Hon. Hal Corbett spoke at Cynthiana in the interest of Gov. Brown.

Senator Goebel finished his tour of the Tenth district last week. He spoke yesterday at Versailles.

Hon. A. H. Ward, of Cynthiana, upon the invitation of sixty-two anti-Goebel men of Berry, spoke Saturday afternoon to a crowd of 150 persons at that place.

It is strange that the "frosts" received by various candidates never faze the campaign lie.

EX-Gov. ALTGELD will be an independent candidate for Governor of Illinois if Carter Harrison should be the Democratic nominee.

Campaign lies about the size of crowds are now ripe enough for publication in Ohio papers. The campaign has been opened by Senator Foraker.

An Apt Interpolation.

(Walter Champ An Illustrated Kentuckian.)

"Something has certainly detained them," observed the actor, showing considerable annoyance, and peering in every direction.

The appointed time had passed almost an hour before.

"I came down here to attend the funeral of my uncle, but the procession has evidently been delayed. Fortunately, I remember the coon song I am to sing to-morrow night at the Ragtime Club, so I'll just rehearse it along with the cake walk. Will you kindly assist me, professor?"

The specialty having been cleverly interpolated, the action of the melodrama continued.

THE PASSING OF SMITHKINS.

"And so Smithkins is dead," observed Hawkins. What was the cause?"

"He died from a sudden shock," remarked Hunter.

"Live wire, I presume."

"No. You see Wilkins returned a borrowed umbrella and step ladder and $10 borrowed money. The shock was too much for Smithkins."

Baby's coming should be a time of joy and happiness. Fear should be forgotten and pain a stranger. How often is it so? As the time approaches how often the poor expectant mother is nerve-racked and pain-ridden—fearing and almost suffering death. It isn't right. Nature never meant it to be so. If the mother were strong and well in a womanly way, as she ought to be, there would be no danger and little pain. The time of parturition is made comfortable and safe by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a medicine designed by a skilled physician—a specialist in the disorders and diseases of women—for the express and only purpose of putting the whole womanly system into perfect, vigorous health. It works directly on the organs involved in baby's advent and makes them strong, healthful and flexible. Taken during the whole period of gestation it insures the perfect health of both mother and child.

Mrs. Mollie E. Grimes, of Flomaton, Escambia Co., Ala., writes: "I have taken three bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one bottle of your little 'Pellets' and oh, what an appetite they did give me. My baby is now three months old and weighs fifteen pounds and a half. When she was born she was the fattest little baby girl you ever saw. She was the largest one of all my babies and at the birth I had an easier and shorter time than I ever had. I am stouter and healthier than I ever was. I never will be without your medicine. May God bless you and your good medicines."

For obstinate constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most perfect medicine ever devised. They give prompt, comfortable, permanent relief.

A Kentucky Girl's Romance.

The Chicago Record Saturday printed a lengthy story of the romantic engagement of Miss Virginia Tyler Hudson, a handsome Kentucky girl, who is the sister of Misses Blanche and Janita Hudson, of this city.

During the course of her newspaper work in Chicago last week, Miss Hudson met Anand A. Advani, a millionaire indigo merchant of India, who has been touring Canada and the United States for pleasure. Mr. Advani, who was stopping at the Auditorium, was so smitten with Miss Hudson that he wooed very persistently, and in three days won her promise to marry him.

Miss Hudson leaves in a short time for Italy, with a chaperone, to complete her musical education, according to a betrothal agreement. The wedding will be celebrated in London next June.

Mr. Advani is a son of a millionaire banker in Bombay, and is a graduate of Bombay University, speaking eight languages. He is a handsome man of twenty-nine, and is six feet tall. His mother is a member of the social circle of which Lady Curzon is the center, and the family is very old and influential. Mr. Advani was married, according to the custom of his country, when he was six years old to a girl of four, who died when she was seventeen. Later he was married to an English lady who died last April.

Miss Hudson is a daughter of the late Rev. D. T. Hudson, and is a handsome Kentucky girl—bright, amiable and musical—who was educated at Millersburg Female College.

Mr. Advani said to the Record Reporter: "When I made up my mind to marry, one of the first things I decided upon was that I did not want a rich wife. It is my plan to stay in Canada and the United States till February. Miss Hudson will leave for Italy next month, where she will take up the study of languages and music, in which latter she is already accomplished. After our marriage in June we will live in London, which I prefer to India."

Dancing school will be held to-morrow night and Thursday night at Odd Fellows Hall.

A Beautiful Carnival.

The Children's Carnival given at the opera house Friday night under the auspices of the Paris Literary Club was a complete success, the succession of marches, tableaux and songs by children in fancy costumes, forming a beautiful spectacle. There were about one hundred and fifty children in the carnival, all admirably trained by their thoroughly competent and patient teacher, Miss M. Hallie Cozine, the originator and director of these carnivals. The carnival was witnessed by a packed house Friday night and was repeated before a good audience at the matinee Saturday. The Literary Club netted $114 on the carnival. The amount will be donated to the Public Library Fund.

Distinguished Visitor in Paris.

The Hotel Windsor is entertaining a distinguished guest in the person of Commodore William Penn McCann, a former Parisian, who arrived Saturday from New Rochelle, N. Y., to visit his sister, Mrs. Nannie Brown.

Commodore McCann, left Paris in 1848 to enter the Naval Academy at Annapolis, and after graduating, entered the naval service. His first command was the frigate Raritan. In 1855 he was promoted 200 numbers for gallant service, and after the Civil War he was advanced 16 numbers over seniors for conspicuous gallantry, being promoted from Captain to Commodore.

He was in command of the Kennebec under Admiral Farragut in the battle of Mobile, and distinguished himself in this fight. Commodore McCann had the rank of Admiral when he commanded the South Atlantic and the Pacific Squadron. Admiral Schley was a Captain under Admiral McCann in the Atlantic Squadron.

Commodore McCann has been on the retired list for several years, all naval officers being retired at the age of sixty-four. He was at the head of the list of Commodores and would have retired an Admiral had he been six months younger. He made many successful fights and captures.

Commodore McCann is well acquainted with Admiral Dewey, who also served under Admiral Farragut during the battles around New Orleans. Commodore McCann has a home in Washington and one in Philadelphia but lives in New Rochelle in order to be near the ocean. Mrs. McCann came to Kentucky with him to visit the Bluegrass.

The Turkey Crop.

It is estimated by competent judges that the turkey crop this year will be thirty per cent larger than that of last year. The dry season has been favorable to the young turkeys and the loss by disease common to young fowls has been small. The large increase in Kentucky and the large crops reported in the West are likely to make the prices rule somewhat lower, perhaps, than last year. The stock everywhere is reported to be unusually fine.

The Street Fair.

Paris is liberally bedecked in flags and bunting and ropes of red, white and blue, to signalize the second annual renewal of the Paris Free Street Fair. DARLING.

So oft, my friend, you speak of her,
It bids my inner being stir,
And who is darling, this I pray?
A sunny child, a bud of May,
Whose laugh and shout and cherub face,
At every time, in every place
Are of your heart its sweet employ—
Is this your darling, this your joy?

Ah no! I see it is in truth
A maiden in the growth of youth,
As lovely as a morning in June.
There scarce could be a sweeter boon:
Expectancy upon her face,
And joy and hope add dimpled grace;
The dewdrop clearness in her eye,
As blue and soft as yonder sky.

My darling is not thus, ah no!
Her eye it hath no lustrous glow,
Her brow bears marks of age and care,
Like symbols, too, her cheek doth wear;
Her hands are trembling, pallid, weak,
Her steps her feebleness doth speak,
Her voice has quavers in its tone,
The verge of life by her is won.

And yet to me more passing fair
Than sunny child or maiden are
That face where age has set its sign,
Has patient smile almost divine,
And those dim eyes have holy light,
As if they saw beyond our sight,
The hands so trembling, pale and weak
Of long and faithful service speak.

These marks of beauty, friend, are such,
Not age nor sense, but heart that touch;
They tell me in a little while
I'll miss the patient face and smile,
I touch her lips, I grasp her hand,
With reverent awe before her stand,
And whisper soft, ay, tenderly,
My mother darling is to me.

CHAPTER XVI. FRIEND OR FOE.

I used to sup alone in my rooms, occasionally asking St. Armande to join me; and after supper we dined together for an hour or so, for very small points. He was an infant at the game, and I taught him a good deal, so much so that after a little practice, for he was very quick with his wrist, he mastered my favorite throw, and one evening after returning from the vatican he knocked me up in my rooms, and flung on the table a bag of gold pieces.

"Three hundred of them, cavalieri!" he said; "I won them from Fabrizio Colonna, who is looking green with rage. If your purse is running short, they are at your service. Ha! I see a flask of Orvietto—may I?" and he poured himself out a goblet, at which he began to sip, in apparent defiance of his vow.

"The devil!" I exclaimed, "but you are flying at high stakes, cavalieri. Your Picard estates must be broad. Thanks all the same for your offer, but my purse is as full as I want it at present."

He leaned back in his chair, with a pink flush on his delicate features.

"I meant no offense, cavalieri; but what is the use of money unless one can share it with a friend?"

"There was no offense taken, St. Armande," I replied; "and if you will take none, I would like to have my say at you."

He looped one finger in his golden mustache, and showed his even teeth in his smile, as he said:

"Speak on."

"Then, cavalieri, it seems to me a thousand pities that a young man like you would waste your time here as you appear to be doing. I understood you to say you had never seen a sword drawn in earnest as yet—and your mustache is grown! Take my advice. Play no more for cold pieces with Colonna or anyone else. Mount your horse, and join Tremouille at once."

"Ah! that is good," he said; "and why does the grave and reverend Cavaliere Donati waste his time here, hanging at the heels of a churchman, and moping 'o' nights like an owl on a ruined wall, instead of stirring the times himself with the point of his sword?"

With any other I would have been annoyed; with the youth before me I was slightly amused, and at the same time a trifle surprised. Hitherto he had appeared so shy and reserved, and now, of a sudden, he had thrown this off, and had put on an air which I had not noticed before, but which became him vastly. I set it down to the fact that perhaps he was slightly warmed with wine, having apparently absolved himself from his vow; although of course I did not appear to notice this last, as he was in a manner my guest. I therefore made reply:

He was an infant at the game.

"My reasons for my action, cavalieri, are good, and when the time comes I promise you I shall not be found sleeping."

The gentle reproof in my words seemed to bring him back to his old self, for by the light of the candles I observed him flush scarlet, and that curious look which recalled a strange resemblance to some one I knew, but could not remember, came over his features.

I began to relent as I saw his countenance. I began as soon as I had spoken; and added, "I may say that the time is not far distant—that it is a matter of days only."

"Take me with you."

He added this almost in a tone of entreaty, keeping his eyes away from me, however, and nervously twisting at his mustache.

"And your secretary, as you call him, the abbe?"

"Oh, he will come, too, and we could con-

I hesitated for a second, and then made answer:

"Very well. Only you must be prepared to start at a moment's notice, and there will probably be hard riding and hard fighting, and there is yet another thing."

"What is that?"

"You must come as a simple volunteer, and must make no inquiry as to what the business is on which I am engaged. I risk my life for my own purposes; if you wish to do likewise you are welcome to join me, on the condition I have stated."

"I accept with pleasure."

"Then that is settled, and I have a new comrade."

"Hurrah!" and he raised his glass to his lips.

After that he retired, it being late, I saw him across the courtyard as far as his apartments, and then, returning to my rooms, unconsciously took the chair St. Armande had vacated. The goblet of wine he had filled was before me, and I idly lifted it in my hand. It was barely touched. In fact he could not have tasted a few drops only.

Like lightning a suspicion of treachery came on me. The man had been pretending to drink. With what object? I could not make out. Was the offer of the money a blind? Perhaps so, and if then? I had been a fool to agree to his joining me, with that sour-looking abbe of his. Yes, I had been a fool, but it was lucky I discovered my own folly in time. I should keep my eyes on this silken diplomat, and if necessary pick a quarrel with him, and run him through. Somehow I did not like the idea of this, however; but determined to get rid of him in one way or the other. I would allow nothing to stand between me and the road back to honor. So musing, I sat for a half-hour or so, and was startled by Jacopo's sudden entry, so lost was I in thought.

He came and stood, bolt upright, next to my chair, without saying a word. I knew from this that he had some request to make, some favor to ask, as otherwise he would not have hesitated to make play with his tongue at once.

"What is it, Jacopo?"

He shifted uneasily from one foot to the other, and then replied:

"Your excellency, I want leave."

"Leave! What for? You are not going to be married, are you?"

"Heaven and the saints forbid, excellency. No—no—it is not that, it is only leave for the day I want, and also for our men."

"The devil! What are you going to do?"

"Only a little dinner, excellency, which I am giving."

"And wasting those crowns you got the other day. Well, that is your affair, not mine. Yes, you can have the leave."

"A hundred thanks, excellency."

"Mind you, there must be no brawling, no trouble."

"Excellency."

"Well, good night, and remember what I say. Here, you may remove this wine-cup as you go."

"Good night, signore," and Jacopo, lifting the goblet, went out. The night being fairly warm, I kept my door open, and as he passed into the portico I saw him drain the contents of the goblet with a gulp, and heard him draw his lips together with a snarl of approval, and march off to his quarters, clad in something of other.

The following afternoon I rode out with Bayard and half a dozen others. It was a hawk party, and there was a long gallop to our point of operation, which was to begin a little way beyond Ponte Molle. In a short time we started a noble herd, and Bayard flung his penguin into the air, and rode after the birds. It was a glorious ride, and Castor and Pollux far outstripped the others, so much so that when we drew rein beside the stricken heron, and Bayard slipped the hood over his hawk, our companions were not in sight. This, however, troubled us little, and turning rein we made backwards. On our way back, I seized the opportunity to mention to Bayard that St. Armande had volunteered to aid me in my task, and that I had accepted his offer.

"It will do him good," he said; "he seems a noble youth, who has been tied too long to apron strings."

"Do you think so?" I said; "he strikes me as being effeminate to a degree—and yet I cannot help liking him."

"He has a wonderful pure mind," said Bayard; "the boy, for he is no less, is as innocent as a child."

"The vatican will not improve him then, especially if he plays for gold crowns with Colonna."

"Plays for gold crowns!" exclaimed Bayard; "you are surely mistaken, cavalieri."

"Did he not do so last night, my lord? I understood he won three hundred off Fabrizio?"

"Impossible," said Bayard, "I was at the vatican last night, and the party in which Colonna was playing consisted of Strigonia, Mr. Florido, our lord the pope, and Colonna himself—no more. St. Armande was standing hard at hand for some little time, but never took a wager. In fact, he passed most of the evening with Giulia Bella, thrumming on a lute, much to the annoyance of his holiness. I should say it would be well for him to quit Rome."

"Then I am wrong," I said; "yes, I fancy it would be well for him to quit Rome."

By this time the others came up, and we said no more. As we went back to Rome, I dropped a little behind, reflecting on what Bayard had told me. I was certain that St. Armande had lied to me, and I began to feel sure he had done this not for my good. In short, it seemed to me that this innocent-looking boy, with his shy, retiring manners and apparent want of knowledge of the world, was nothing more nor less than an accomplished actor. Then again he was a Frenchman, and how came he, obviously fresh from France, to become an agent of the Medici plotters, for so I put him down to be? There were the letters from Mme. de la Tremouille, his introduction were unimpeachable, the cardinal believed in him—the whole thing was contradictory. Above all, there was my strong personal liking for St. Armande. In his presence I never felt that secret warning which all men feel when they are with an enemy. I have never known it fail with me, and with St. Armande there was no such warning, no such silent signal which goes straight from soul to soul. On the contrary, I felt he was almost more than friendly towards me, and I felt, in my turn towards him, despite our short acquaintance, very nearly the same protective feeling that one has towards a defenseless child. As may be imagined, I was in no very comfortable frame of mind about this, and rode back silently, revolving the point. When we reached the palace, almost the first person I met was St. Armande, and as I dismounted he came up to me with a cordial greeting, and asked:

"Well, cavalieri, good sport, I trust?"

"Very," I replied, shortly, and then looked him straight in the face as I added: "Do you intend to give the Colonna his revenge to-night?"

Something in my tone caught him, he met my eyes for a moment, then dropped his gaze, and looked towards the ground. We stood thus before each other for a little time before he replied, and his voice was almost inaudible.

"Perhaps I am not sure," he added, with an effort.

I was standing, holding Castor's reins; but as he spoke I handed the horse over to a groom, and, linking my arm in St. Armande's, said, loudly, and with a tone of affected gaiety:

"You missed a great ride, cavalieri—come take a turn with me in the garden."

He yielded passively, and in a few steps we had crossed the courtyard and were in a secluded portion of the palace gardens that was called the Lemon walk. This I may add was subsequently improved out of existence by the architect, in the course of completion of the palace and grounds. When we reached this point, I unslipped my arm, and, turning round, faced St. Armande, having resolved to end my suspicions.

"See here, cavalieri," I said, "I am playing for heavy stakes, I am walking on dangerous ground, and must know where I put my feet, will you answer a plain question? Are you friend or foe?"

He looked round in a helpless sort of way, his color coming and going, but said nothing. Was it possible the man was a coward?

"If you do not reply," I said, "I will take the risk, and treat you as an enemy, do you hear? You lied to me when you said last night you had played at the vatican with Colonna—now draw." I pulled out my weapon, and stood before him, expecting every instant to see his rapier in his hands; but he stood absolutely still, his head hanging down.

"Man," I said, "have you not heard? Am I to think you a coward as well as a liar?"

"How dare you say that!" he burst out. "You—you of all men—Oh! what am I saying? Yes, I did not play with Colonna; but I thought you were hard pressed for money, and—ah! and invented the fiction, thinking that perhaps—"

Seizing Jacopo by the neck, ejected him.

"That perhaps I would accept your winnings over the gambling table, rather than the offer of a friend. You do me much honor, cavalieri."

"You wrong me, Savelli—may, start not. I know your name and story, and, before heaven, I say I am your friend."

"You know me?"

"Yes, I am working for you; come, put by your sword. Look at me! Do I look like an enemy?"

He had recovered himself, and met my gaze fearlessly. Where could I have seen that face before? I drew my hand over my forehead as if to sweep the cobwebs from my memory, but with no avail.

"Well," he went on, with a smile, "do I look like an enemy? If I do, your sword is ready. Strike now, it will be quick retribution; come!"

I put back my sword with a snap. "I do not understand, but I accept your explanation."

He held out his hand frankly.

"That is right, and you will still let me be your comrade?"

I took his grasp.

"Yes, if you wish it."

We walked back together in silence, and on reaching the courtyard, St. Armande said:

"I am afraid I have fallen much in your esteem."

"My esteem, cavalieri, is at present of no value to man or woman."

"Do you think so?" he said, and then, rapidly: "Adieu for the present; remember, I hold you to your word that you think me a friend."

I made no answer, and he ran lightly up the steps of the principal entrance.

I supposed the evening for a change with the gentlemen of the suite; but St. Armande was not there, and there were a few free remarks made concerning the manner in which he was supposed to have been received at the vatican by Giulia Orsini and Lucrezia Borgia.

"If it goes on like this," said Le Clerc, "we will have to drag the Tiber for his body, and say masses for his soul, unless he puts the seas between himself and the Borgia."

"He never struck me as a man to run after the ladies," I said.

"No," replied the abbe, "but it is the other way. You would stand no chance against him, cavalieri, for all your long mustache—a thousand thanks," and the genial Le Clerc seized the flagon of Orvietto I passed to him, and filled his goblet.

After this the conversation changed, and I shortly retired to my apartments, and, dismissing my lackey, sat down to read a book on falconry that the cardinal had lent me. I had not been occupied thus for an hour when the door opened, and Jacopo cautiously peeped in. He withdrew his head on catching my eye, and I heard him shuffling outside.

"Come in."

"Excellency," and the sound of further shuffling, but no Jacopo. I lost patience at this, and, fearing at the same time that there had been trouble, repeated my order to come in sharply. This had the desired effect, but as soon as my henchman appeared in view I made certain there had been a brawl. He was very red in the face, and from under the helmet he wore I could see a white bandage.

"What the devil does this mean, Jacopo?" I asked, sternly.

"I have come to report, excellency."

"You hardly appear in a fit state to do so."

"Perfectly fit, excellency," and Jacopo drew himself up to attention and saluted.

"Is the matter of importance? For, if not, you had better come to-morrow."

"Yes, your excellency—matter of importance. By your worship's leave, as you are aware, I gave a dinner to-day, and we had—"

"Never mind what you had; to the point."

"Boiled meat with sauce, sausages with garlic, a risotto alla Milanese—"

"I do not care what you had—go on, fool."

"I am going on, excellency. Where was I—a risotto did I say? And bread made with yeast. And for drink, signore—"

"I doubt not you had store of that, Jacopo."

"But a dozen flagons or so of wine, your worship—all rosso."

"Jacopo—you will be good enough to retire at once."

"I am retiring, excellency; but my report—"

"Will do for to-morrow."

"As your worship desires; but we have burnt the inn."

"What?"

"The inn, where we rested the day of our arrival in Rome, your worship. What with one thing and another, the landlord footed up his bill to four crowns. And I said to my friends: 'What! are honest soldiers to pay like this?' Whereat there was trouble, excellency; but we came off best."

I rose without a word, and seizing Jacopo by the neck, ejected him from the room, with, I am sorry to say, very considerable violence.

Cursing myself for my folly in having been so generous, I banged the door after him, and returned to my book. I could not, however, read, for my mind was full of the consequences that might arise from this mad freak of my followers, and I determined to seek out the cardinal the next day, and obtain his permission to move out of Rome to some quieter spot, and there await his instructions. Amidst it all, however, I could not help being pleased at the thought that retributive justice had overtaken the scoundrel tavern-keeper, the memory of whose bed made me shudder. I had no doubt that Jacopo was speaking the truth, and that, even as he spoke, the flames were sputtering merrily above that den of thieves.

A HUMAN SALAMANDER.

The Remarkable Performance of a Musician in Testing His Endurance of Heat.

On June 28, 1828, an experiment was made at Paris to ascertain the power of a man to endure heat. The experimenter was a Spaniard of Andalusia, named Martinez, aged 43. His performance took place before a gathering of about 200 people, including several doctors and men of science. An oven, made in the shape of a dome, had been heated for four hours by a very powerful fire. The Spaniard remained in it for 14 minutes, with the metallic thermometer registering between 15 and 30 degrees, 50 being the highest graduation on it. He sang a Spanish song while a fowl roasted by his side. When he came out his pulse throbbed out 124 pulsations a minute, although it had been only 72 on his entering his fiery furnace.

Preparations were then made for a second experiment, the oven's heat being greatly intensified. Martinez returned to his inferno, where he partook of a meal, during which he consumed the fowl that had been roasted by his side at the first experiment, washing it down with a bottle of claret.

At the conclusion of his banquet he left the oven, when it was found that his pulse had risen to 176, indicating a heat of 280 degrees Fahrenheit.

Then the third and last experiment was commenced. This time the Spaniard reclined on a plank in the oven, surrounded by lighted candles, and the door of the room was closed. Soon a stream of melted tallow began to flow under the door, and at the end of five minutes the spectators demanded that the door be opened. The human salamander's pulse now beat 200 times to the minute.

When he emerged from his amateur hades Martinez plunged into a cold bath, and three minutes later was going about as well as ever, without feeling any bad effects. And we grumble and growl when we are called upon to endure a trifle of 90 degree heat.

In Algiers the French troops think nothing of marching and drilling at a heat of 122 degrees above zero. During a visit to a tribe of Tuaregs, in the Sahara, a scientist observed a heat of 153 degrees. Attendants in Turkish baths work ten hours on end in rooms where the air is artificially heated to 155, 175 and even 195 degrees Fahrenheit.—Chicago Chronicle.

Settling the Boy's Career.

An old Dutchman had a beautiful boy, of whom he was very proud, and he decided to find out the bent of his mind. He adopted a very novel method by which to test him. He slipped into the little fellow's room one morning and placed on his table a Bible, a bottle of whisky and a silver dollar.

"Now," said he, "you dot boy comes in, ef he dakes dot dollar, he's goin' to be a beensiz man; ef he dakes dot Bible, he'll be a breacher; ef he dakes dot whisky, he's no goot—he's goin' to be a drunkart," and he hid behind the door to see which his son would choose.

In came the boy, whistling. He ran up to the table and picked up the dollar and put it in his pocket; he picked up the Bible and put it under his arm, then he snatched up the bottle of whisky and took two or three drinks, and went out smacking his lips. The old Dutchman poked his head out from behind the door and exclaimed:

"Mine gracious—he's going to be a bolitician."—Boston Traveler.

Sweet Enough.

Nobody can pay a prettier compliment than the Irishman when he chooses. His tongue and wit are never nimbler than when he employs them in the service of "blarney." A young professor from Dublin was entertained over night by an American professor at his summer home on the coast of Maine.

At breakfast the next morning the little daughter of the house, who sat next the young Irishman, saw with amazement that he put no sugar in his tea.

"Wouldn't you like even one lump of sugar in your tea?" she asked, solicitously.

"My papa likes three lumps." "Since you have looked into the cup, my little maid, the tea is quite sweet enough," responded the young professor, gallantly.—Youth's Companion.

But He Kept on Talking.

GIRAFFES IN AFRICA.

A Few Specimens Have Been Found in the Central Part of the Dark Continent.

From time to time it has been rumored that giraffes existed in British Central Africa, on the Loangwa river, but, although that river valley has been frequently visited during the last ten years by Europeans, no authentic information on the point has ever been obtained, says the British Central African Gazette. Recently, however, a giraffe was shot on the east bank of the Loangwa, in the Marimba district, by a European prospector, and its skin (incomplete) sent in to Capt. Chichester, in Mpezeni's country. The hinder half of the skin is being sent to the British museum, and it is hoped that a complete specimen may now be obtained.

The existence of giraffes in Marimba is remarkable; the area in which they are found is extremely restricted, and their number appears to be very few. The one shot, however, was in a herd of about 35. The nearest country north of Marimba in which giraffes are known to exist is north of Marere, where the Elton-Cotterill expedition met with them many years ago. To the south Matshelend is the nearest giraffe country.

FIFTY CENTS FOR NOTHING.

What will the inventive brain of man do next? This is a question some one asks almost daily. There is one, though, who leads all others, who for a quarter of a century has been making fine laundry starch, and to-day is offering the public the finest starch ever placed on the market.

Ask your grocer for a coupon book which will enable you to get the first two packages of this new starch, "RED CROSS" (trade mark brand) also two children's Shakespeare pictures, painted in twelve beautiful colors, natural as life, or the Twentieth Century Girl Calendar, all absolutely free. All grocers are authorized to give ten large packages of "RED CROSS STARCH" with twenty of the Shakespeare pictures or ten of the Twentieth Century Girl Calendars to the first five purchasers of the ENDLESS CHAIN STARCH BOOK. This is one of the greatest offers ever made to introduce "RED CROSS" laundry starch, J. C. Hubinger's latest invention.

Miss Proctor's Youthful Critics.

Miss Mary Proctor, the astronomer and lecturer, takes a deep interest in social settlement work in the big cities, and frequently gives her personal services toward entertaining poor children and adults. Generally her lectures are very well received. Many of her audiences often manifest better attention than those drawn from higher circles. Now and then there are exceptions. On one occasion a bright-eyed little boy who sat in the front row with his eyes fixed upon the speaker was asked how he liked it. "I guess," he said, "it was pretty good, but she ought to talk about lions and tigers. That's better for everybody." At another lecture a youngster criticized her as follows: "It's all very well to talk of weighing and measuring stars. There are some people, of course, who believe that sort of thing, but if she thinks she can fool us boys with such fairy tales she's very much mistaken."—Philadelphia Post.

The Best Man Wins.

Prize fighting may not be a pleasant subject, but it teaches a lesson nevertheless—the inability of man to hold the championship for any length of time. How unlike that great champion of health, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has never been beaten, and for fifty years has met and conquered the worst cases of constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness and liver trouble. See that a private Revenue Stamp covers the neck of the bottle.

Looks All Right.

"Doesn't the bicycle make you feel younger?" asked the expert.

"Well, I won't exactly say that," replied the elderly novice, "but it certainly makes me look younger."

THE ills of women overshadow their whole lives.

Some women are constantly getting medical treatment and are never well. "A woman best understands women's ills," and the women who consult Mrs. Pinkham find in her counsel practical assistance. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

MRS. MABEL GOOD, Correctionville, Ia., tells how Mrs. Pinkham saved her life. She says:

"I cannot thank you enough for what your medicine has done for me. I can recommend it as one of the best medicines on earth for all women's ills. I suffered for two years with female weakness and at last became bedfast. Three of our best doctors did me no good so I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking a few bottles of your medicine, I was able to do all my household work. I know that your medicine raised me from a bed of sickness and perhaps death, and am very thankful for what it has done for me. I hope that every suffering woman may be persuaded to try your medicine."

Get Mrs. Pinkham's advice as soon as you begin to be puzzled. The sick headaches and dragging sensation come from a curable cause. Write for help as soon as they appear.

MRS. DOLE STANLEY, Campbellsburg, Ind., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I was troubled with sick headache and was so weak and nervous, I could hardly go. A friend called upon me one evening and recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, saying that she knew that it would cure me. I then sent for your medicine and after taking five bottles of it, I was entirely cured. I cannot praise it enough."

Scrofula to Consumption.

Any one predisposed to Scrofula can never be healthy and vigorous. This taint in the blood naturally drifts into Consumption. Being such a deep-seated blood disease, Swift's Specific is the only known cure for Scrofula, because it is the only remedy which can reach the disease.

Scrofula appeared on the head of my little grandchild when only 18 months old. Shortly after breaking out it spread rapidly all over her body. The scabs on the sores would peel off on the slightest touch, and the odor that would arise made the atmosphere of the room sickening and unbearable. The disease next attacked the eyes, and we feared she would lose her sight. Eminent physicians from the surrounding country were consulted, but could do nothing to relieve the little innocent, and gave it as their opinion that the case was hopeless and impossible to save the child's eyesight. It was then that we decided to try Swift's Specific. That medicine at once made a speedy and complete cure. She is now a young lady and has never had a sign of the disease to return.

Mrs. RUTH BENKLEY,
Salina, Kan.

Scrofula is an obstinate blood disease, and is beyond the reach of the average blood medicine. Swift's Specific is the only remedy equal to such deep-seated diseases; it goes down to the very foundation and forces out every taint. It is purely vegetable, and is the only blood remedy guaranteed to contain no mercury, potash or other mineral substance whatever. Books mailed free by Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

S.S.S. For The Blood
